Do you celebrate wedding anniversaries in your country? What kind of presents do you usually give?
In my country, we celebrate wedding anniversaries by giving jam. For the first five years, we give strawberry jam, and for the next five, we give raspberry jam. Every five years we change the jam. On the fiftieth anniversary, we give honey.

Do you have a family heirloom? What is its history? How did you get it?
My family's heirloom is an old clock. It belonged to my grandfather's grandfather. It was made in Switzerland, and as my family travelled, they brought it to this country. I don't have it, my uncle does.

When was the last time you were sick? How did you get sick?
Last week on Sunday, I was very tired and I put on the heater before I went to bed. But I made a mistake, and instead of the heater, it was the cooler. When I woke up, I had a serious cold, and I couldn't go to work.
